

Esther Dischereit's 'Blumen für Otello' 'Flowers for Otello'

© Sandro Most

One of Germany's most exciting contemporary authors, Esther Dischereit is also a critical voice in current debates on racism and political violence in the Federal Republic. Her book Blumen für Otello. Über die Verbrechen von Jena (translated by Iain Galbraith and Tom Cheesman) offers a powerful and moving account of right-wing violence in reunified Germany, which is based on the experiences of its victims and their families.

Please join us for a reading (in German and English) and a wine reception with Esther Dischereit at 8pm on 27 June 2105, Magdalene College, Cripps Court, Meeting Room 3.

This event is kindly sponsored by the Department of German and Dutch and the Schröder Fund. Please contact Dr Katharina Karcher should you have any questions kk552@cam.ac.uk
