WEDNESDAY 5TH MARCH

PASCHALIS NIKOLAOU
(Ionian University)

5 - 6pm

CLOSING THE DISTANCE: CREATIVITY
AND INVENTION IN CLASSICAL TRANSLATION

The transmission of ancient Greek and Latin texts into anglophone literatures has been exquisitely diverse, particularly in the wake of modernism, and all the way to recent examples. This talk will present several reasons for retranslation, hybridity, and translation as experiment.

NAVIGATING THE “IN-BETWEEN”:
TRANSLATION PRACTICE, RESEARCH AND ACTIVISM

LB8
Lecture Block
Sidgwick site

This talk will discuss how working at the intersection of translation research and practice offers a productive and stimulating knowledge exchange, but will also confront the complex and often messy realities of navigating the “in-between” space, straddling both and not belonging entirely to either one.
